

The Graham Sustainability Institute's new Emerging Opportunities Program offers an array of collaborative and engaged research opportunities, responsive to the interests of faculty, external partners, and stakeholders, and emergent sustainability challenges. These regular funding opportunities and resources support research and assessment activities that span multiple disciplines and sectors and connect science to real-world decisions and actions, ranging from one-time meetings to multi-year projects and assessment.

	MCubed Sustainability Block Incentives	Catalyst Grants	Transformation Grants	Other Support and Resources
Activities	Unrestricted	Conferences, Project Planning, White Papers, Workshops	Collaborative Research and Assessment Initiatives	Faculty Networking Meetings, Stakeholder Engagement, Project Management and Evaluation, Special Initiatives
Level of Support	Up to $10,000 per grant  1 year grant period  Up to 3 grants per MCubed cubing cycle	Up to $10,000 per grant  8 month grant period  Up to 4 grants annually 2 per funding cycle	$100,000 - $150,000 per year  1 - 3 year grant period  1 new grant per year	Graham Staff
Schedule	Concurrent with MCubed, estimated every 2 years	Semiannual RFP (Fall and Winter)	Annual RFP (Fall)	Ongoing

Full details, including eligibility and review criteria and application instructions, are available in Requests for Proposals posted to the Graham Sustainability Institute website. On the website you can also register for informational sessions and learn more about previously funded projects.

Learn more: graham.umich.edu/science/emopps

Contact: John Callewaert, Emerging Opportunities Director, 734-615-3752, jcallew@umich.edu