Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Strategic Plan
Five-Year Strategic Objectives, Measures and FY18 Actions

The Graham Institute continues to solicit feedback on this plan from key constituencies. Along with all other schools, colleges, centers and institutes, our revised annual plan must be completed and submitted to the University administration on or before August 24, 2017. All plans will roll up to create the overall U-M Strategic Plan on Diversity, Equity and Inclusion.

I. Diversity Equity and Inclusion Strategic Plan: Overview

Diversity is key to individuals flourishing, educational excellence and the advancement of knowledge. It is central to our mission as an educational institution to ensure each member of the community has full opportunity to thrive in our environment. As one of the first universities to admit women in 1870 – to our historic defense of race conscious admission policies at the U.S. Supreme Court in 2003 – the University of Michigan has had a fierce and longstanding commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion. This commitment rests upon our recognition of the history in the United States of racial, ethnic, gender and other discrimination, as well as our understanding that our progress as an institution of higher learning will be enhanced with a vibrant community of people from many backgrounds.

— Selected text from President Schlissel’s Diversity Charge

Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Goals:

● Diversity: We commit to increasing diversity, which is expressed in myriad forms, including race and ethnicity, gender and gender identity, sexual orientation, socio-economic status, language, culture, national origin, religious commitments, age, (dis)ability status, and political perspective.

● Equity: We commit to working actively to challenge and respond to bias, harassment, and discrimination. We are committed to a policy of equal opportunity for all persons and do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, marital status, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, religion, height, weight, or veteran status.

● Inclusion: We commit to pursuing deliberate efforts to ensure that our campus is a place where differences are welcomed, different perspectives are respectfully heard and where every individual feels a sense of belonging and inclusion. We know that by building a critical mass of diverse groups on campus and creating a vibrant climate of inclusiveness, we can more effectively leverage the resources of diversity to advance our collective capabilities.

Graham Sustainability Institute Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Statement

At the Graham Sustainability Institute, our dedication to academic excellence for the public good is inseparable from our commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion. Our mission of engaging, empowering, and supporting faculty, staff and students to foster sustainability solutions includes ensuring that each member of our community thrives. We believe that diversity, equity, and inclusion are key to individual empowerment, and the advancement of sustainability knowledge, learning and leadership.
Graham Institute Mission, Vision and Values — Rationale for Pursuing Actions:
Diverse perspectives are embedded in our engagement processes, across disciplinary, sectoral and cultural boundaries. In response to the University’s renewed commitment, this five-year plan will address how we will ensure that each member of our community has full opportunity to thrive.

We will act with deliberateness and humility as we seek to respect and leverage diversity, ensure equity and promote inclusion. We will examine and learn from the outcomes of our efforts and work to improve them. We will act on our commitment, in accordance with the law, to contribute to a just society and to affirm the humanity of all persons.

II. Implementation Highlights and Planning Process Used

Year One (2017) Implementation Summary

Announcement of the Graham Institute DEI Plan
The Graham Institute announced the new DEI strategic plan to a broad audience including faculty, students, alumni and external partners in October 2016. The Institute continued sending updates throughout 2017 and will continue to engage the U-M community and partners through discussions at meetings, seminars, and other efforts. The Graham diversity website (www.graham.umich.edu/diversity) is regularly updated to include information for faculty, students, staff, and others.

DEI Integration into Programs & Administrative Efforts:
- Fellowship, scholarship and grant applications now include an essay question and DEI statement on application materials (e.g., Dow Sustainability Fellowship Program).
- Graham Institute human resources (e.g., employment applications), communications (e.g., website, e-news, publications), and faculty outreach efforts include the DEI statement (e.g., requests for project funding).
- Science outreach for both internal and external audiences include highlights of engaging a variety of communities and a diverse group of students involved in sustainability scholarship (e.g., Global Impact Series and Students and Sustainability Profile Series).

Communication
The Graham Institute’s DEI communication initiatives leveraged communication about campus-wide efforts through email, social media, articles, summaries, and the Institute's website. Updates about the Graham Institute's progress toward implementing our DEI strategic plan have increased awareness about these resources among Graham staff. Examples include:
- Enhanced communication about career development and opportunities to engage in U-M-sponsored DEI training; Graham staff attended 14 diversity workshops or training sessions.
- Implementing best practices to review the content of all materials to ensure they address DEI requirements in both student and faculty applications for funding is now part of the program material review process.
- Efforts to diversify the Graham community by considering DEI when selecting speakers, advisors, and others.

Amplifying Efforts in Detroit, Rural Mississippi and Tribal Partnerships
Since the Graham Institute is a non-degree granting unit and partially supports just one tenured faculty, our efforts are focused on amplifying research and fieldwork relevant to DEI issues, conducted by faculty and students in other schools, colleges, and units addressing engagement with many different local-global communities. Examples include:
• Highlighting Dow Sustainability Fellows fieldwork projects such as neighborhood revitalization efforts in Detroit, Michigan; improving women’s health in rural India, and addressing the scarcity of healthy food in rural Mississippi (see: Dow Global Impact Series, http://sustainability.umich.edu/dow/media/global-impact-series).

• The partnership with Anishinaabe (Great Lakes tribal) communities, the Matthaei Botanical Gardens and Arboretum and the Department of Anthropology, School of Literature, Science and Arts (see: http://graham.umich.edu/news/anishinaabe-partners).

• The Michigan Daily covered the student-led Eco Equity event, (see article: https://www.michigandaily.com/section/campus-life/over-30-attend-interactive-discussion-eco-equity).

• The Institute highlights relevant sustainability/DEI accomplishments through communication channels (e.g., news briefs, see: https://sustainability.umich.edu/news/eco-equity-roundtable).

Events

Eco Equity Town Hall: This and other efforts ensure that students have opportunities to discuss DEI issues and engage in activities to advance sustainability knowledge, learning, and leadership. Supporting discussion forums about DEI issues that intersect with sustainability topics (e.g., environmental justice), and specifically facilitating ongoing efforts to encourage interaction within the broader campus community is necessary. Students frequently cited the collaboration across different departments and academic levels as the most exciting component of this initiative. Students propose developing one long-term “Eco Equity” goal: require cross-campus input and buy-in. Student feedback has and will continue to inform improvements to existing programs and the overall culture at the Graham Institute.

Recommendations:

• Align an Eco Equity goal (see above) with one or more of the existing campus sustainability goals (see: http://sustainability.umich.edu/about/goals), none of which specifically address equity and sustainability. It is also important to consider the number of schools/colleges/units that address social/environmental justice issues through scholarly work, science outreach, and community engagement.

• Support additional student-led planning efforts for the 2018 Town Hall through the Student Sustainability Initiative (SSI). The Institute supports SSI by promoting their activities and accomplishments (e.g., Zero Waste, Campus Farms).

The U-M Provost Office supported the 2017 Eco Equity Town Hall event and will support future efforts, and the Graham Institute will support an additional SSI student to focus on planning the 2018 Town Hall. The Institute will continue to guide student efforts and leverage existing best practices for event planning, hosting, and promotional methods, to help ensure that the events are well-organized.

Scholars & Fellows

Demonstrating DEI Benefits: Summarizing data from students, the Institute can demonstrate to potential scholars and fellows applying for funding the connection between sustainability and diversity, equity, and inclusion and the Institute’s commitment to promoting discussion, activities and meaningful engagement in this area. Based on the responses, students understand this is important to consider and described what DEI means to them, both personally and professionally. Furthermore, many students recognized that interdisciplinary and diverse teams lead to better results.

• Public Affairs developed a feature article based on a summary provided by the Institute focusing on the intersection of DEI and sustainability scholarship (see:
DEI & Scholars Program Integration: Undergraduate and graduate scholars interact with one another throughout the academic year in programs that address DEI, including: “Entering, Engaging andExiting Communities,” hosted by the Ginsberg Center and “Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion in Sustainability,” presented by the Environmental Defense Fund. Undergraduate scholars also discussed Native American/First Nation heritage of sites they visited and reflected on how personal identities influence worldviews and relationships. The benefit of this interaction was captured in the Graham Undergraduate Sustainability Scholars Program Summer 2017 Program Analysis report, including the quote below.

“I have learned so much about how to lead with confidence in a group of diverse and impressive individuals.” — Student comment

Graham DEI Team

Progress with the Graham Institute’s DEI plan implementation to date is due to the collaboration among the Graham DEI group (staff, students, administrators) who established specific activities and metrics, and the DEI group members engaged in implementing the plan. Staff initiatives to implement actions focusing on one-time policy changes or updates to existing policies and communication procedures were completed promptly. These and other efforts contribute to ensuring the Institute is a welcoming climate in which to work, study, and foster collaboration among faculty and a variety of external partners. Although, staff training and fostering discussions about DEI will happen over time.

Contribution to Campus-wide DEI Efforts:

- A member of the Graham DEI Planning Team contributed to U-M campus-wide effort to establish DEI Employee Competencies, adding to the existing organizational competencies (see: https://hr.umich.edu/working-u-m/professional-development/diversity-equity-inclusion-training-education/diversity-equity-inclusion-learning-framework-competency-model).

III. Key Findings

U-M Diversity, Equity and Inclusion guidelines and various documents posted on Graham’s diversity website www.graham.umich.edu/diversity.

Trends

- Increased awareness among the U-M administration about the need to make significant change across the campus in meaningful and measurable ways; and, greater access to resources (e.g., guiding documents and templates) available to schools/colleges/units.

- Increased demand among students locally and nationally to raise diversity, equity and inclusion issues, and expectations that these issues will be addressed in efforts to improve both campus culture and scholarly activities.

- Growing interest in discussing significant events (e.g., Ferguson, and Marriage Equality), and the need to increase understanding about how events and reactions to events have an impact on the wellbeing of the U-M community.

- Need for better understanding of the many forms of privilege.

Themes

- Ongoing diversity education for faculty and staff to improve engagement with students.

- Social justice (e.g., better connection with Detroit regarding transportation and student interaction); in addition to discussions about race, economic status, and other diversity, equity and inclusion issues.

- Interest in ongoing improvement through research, monitoring and measurement.

Key Findings

There is room for improvement to increase awareness and foster behavior change about diversity, equity and inclusion within the Graham Institute. Faculty, staff, students, and external partners suggested the Graham Institute can more effectively integrate diversity, equity, and inclusion into scholarly programs (e.g., Dow Fellows Program and the Graham Sustainability Scholars Program); administrative activities (e.g., job postings, grant and fellowship opportunities); human resources (e.g., staff training); communication efforts to promote engagement in programs, and highlight accomplishments and impacts (e.g., website and publications); and outreach efforts (e.g., distribution lists). In addition, we recognize the Graham Institute is in a position to have a positive impact in raising awareness about, and promoting engagement in, the intersection of sustainability and diversity among both internal and external audiences.
In response to the data collected and summarized, the Graham Diversity Planning Team identified a number of short-term and long-term SMART (specific, measurable, attainable, relevant and timely) goals. There are very specific and actionable items in each of the four domain areas that will result in promoting the Graham Institute’s commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion across programs and key audiences internal and external to the Institute.

- Diversity: Make-up of staff, student body, leadership, program/project advisors, and external partners.
- Equity: Demographics of staff promoted and within salary bands; number of reported incidents; reports on adverse impacts; number of participants in professional development opportunities.
- Inclusion: Fostering a welcoming and friendly environment, measure the number of participants in diversity training, track the number of participants in strategic plan iterations, and review climate survey results.
